

Manitoulin Elder – Genny Jacko

Boozoo. My name is nimke kwe, and I just got the news of what happened to your family. If I were to say something, it would be that love will get you through. The love of the one that you've lost, remember her and that love. And it is with this love that you will become strong in making things right, in helping her cross to the spirit world. Remember our teachings. You remember to do that, and that you would help her cross. And also remember, it is our teaching too, when they are in the spirit world, they can help you here on mother earth. All you have to do is ask, and remember to love her through the journey and then what will happen when that love goes through that journey that love will come back to you and help you. That is what I would say as someone who has walked on this earth for a while you honour that spirit and I say. Miigwetch.
