Date Inquest Jury Verdict &
Recommendations Received: 28 June 2016

The jury in the inquest into the deaths of seven First Nations youths has made recommendations which your organization may be in a position to implement. Please report back regarding your consideration to implement the recommendations relating to your organization by completing the attached chart, Responses to Jury Recommendations, and applying the appropriate response codes. Your response is requested by June 28, 2017.

A list of other organizations also requested to report back is provided.

It is important to explain the significance of inquests and consequent recommendations under the Coroners Act. An inquest is a public hearing conducted by a coroner before a jury of five community members. Inquests are held for the purpose of informing the public about the circumstances of a death. An inquest does not find fault, blame or legal wrongdoing but rather examines the circumstances of one or more deaths and looks for lessons that can be learned from the death(s) that may contribute to a safer future for the living. Juries often make recommendations based on these learned lessons and, while they are not binding, it is hoped that implemented recommendations will prevent future deaths in similar circumstances.

The inquest jury verdict and recommendations are located on the Office of the Chief Coroner, Ministry of Community Safety and Correctional Services website at:

http://www.mcscs.jus.gov.on.ca/english/DeathInvestigations/Inquests/VerdictsRecommendations/OCC_verdicts.html

The presiding inquest coroner's verdict explanation is located on the Canadian Legal Information Institute (CanLII) website at:

http://www.canlii.org/en/on/onocco/nav/date/2016_06.html

Your response will be considered public and may be released to interested parties upon request. Summaries of responses to recommendations from all inquests are also compiled by our office and made available to the public.

Please provide us with the name and contact information of the individual leading your organization's response by February 3, 2017. As well, if you feel any of the recommendations should be directed elsewhere, complete the attached Contact Information and Recommendation Referrals form and forward to OCC.inquiries@ontario.ca.

As noted above, inquest jury recommendations are not legally binding; however, we trust they will be given careful consideration for implementation and, if not implemented, that your organization provides an explanation.

Thank you for participating in this important process. Please contact us if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Dirk Huyer, MD
Chief Coroner for Ontario
